Social Features to Convocation

Lunches and Receptions

Social Wheel Whirl

HERE were three angles to the social side of the Episcopal convocation last week. Foremost was the reception to the delegates at the Bishop's house. The other fields of social activity lay in the daily lunches at the guild hall and the entertainment of delegates in the homes of St. John's church parishioners.

The reception was held Wednesday night. All the delegates and most of the parish members attended it. In the receiving line were Bishop and Mrs. Howden, Mrs. Fuller Swift of El Paso and Rev. E. W. Post of Carlsbad.

The decorations were spring flowers.

The luncheon served to the delegates in the guild hall were under the direction of Mesdames Darnell, Goodrich and LaBelle. Those who served were Mesdames Carlisle, Downer, Stewart and Maloney and Misses Jenks, Saint, Anna Newhall, Hood and Elizabeth Darnell.

French Actress Is Imprisoned as Spy

MISS SUZY DEPSY

MISS SUZY DEPSY, one of the most beautiful women of the Parisian stage, is in prison in France charged with being a German spy. The case recalls that of another popular Parisian actress, Mlle. Huguette, who was charged with espionage last year. She is now in prison for espionage.

teresting and instructive program was presented.

Freeing the program proper an inspiring "song" of patriotic songs in which the whole audience joined with spirit and enthusiasm was held. Mrs. E. L. Bradford was song leader with Mrs. D. W. Paw accompanying on the piano and Joel Rubin on the violin.

Mrs. Bradford gave a short talk explaining the work of the National Federation of Musical Clubs, of which she is the western district president. In the American music department of that organization, large cash prizes are given by this department, biennially for compositions of overtures, symphonies, songs, organ solos, etc., to native composers and public hearings guaranteed at the music festivals of the N. F. of M. C.

The musical numbers given were all American compositions, the composers represented being: Mac Dowell, Cadman, Woodman, Spross, Neill, Cowen, Stinson, Luterance, Hathaway, Rockwell, Newton and Neillinger. Mrs. Bradford prefaced the announcement of each with a brief biographical sketch of the composer.

Those who took part in the program were: Mrs. J. O. Schwenker, Miss Hattie Mitchell, Miss Evangeline Perry, Miss Hilda Conner, Miss Grace Winfrey and Mrs. A. F. Morrisette in songs; Mrs. George E. Everett and Mrs. D. W. Paw in piano numbers, and Joel Rubin in violin selections. Each was most happy in her or his performance, and clearly demonstrated that the music of America is as good as the best anywhere.

EGLESTON-CORN WEDDING THURSDAY

Miss Helen Eggleston of Hannibal, Mo., was married Thursday night to T. J. Corn of this city. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. Mary Ridley, 616 South Walter street, by the Rev. W. A. Fortnightly Music Club Holds May Day Tea

The Fortnightly Music club's May Day tea was one of the outstanding events of the week. It was held at the residence of Mrs. W. C. Oestreich and was largely attended.

The decorations were elaborate. A large may pole was the centerpiece in the dining room, and May baskets full of flowers graced all the rooms. Spring and May were the theme of all the numbers of the musical program, to which the Valkyrie sextette took part. Mrs. Katherine Bailey, Mrs. S. P. Miller, Mrs. J. O. Schwenker, Mrs. E. L. Bradford and Mrs. Charles McManahan sang. Miss Pauline Postel and Mrs. George Everett played the piano.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Oestreich, Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. Miller, Mrs. C. H. Conner and Mrs. H. P. LaBelle joined and Misses Viola Skinner, Estelle Lathrop, Robt. Conner, Grace Winfrey, Grace Storz, Gretchen Van Vreck and Eleanor Vaughtey assisted. Mrs. T. G. Winfrey was chairman of the general committee.

Switzer, Miss Ethel Hickey wrote the book and Stanley Seiler the music. Ed King managed the production and contributed a lot of hard work to its success.

The play will be shown at Roswell and Colive this week. Not all the members of the chorus will make the trip. Among those announced as part of the "road company" chorus are Misses Bear, Roeliner, Haverford, Angelo T. Reagan, Hawkins, McCanna, Lowber, Standley, Ferguson, Keen, Dixon, M. Reagan, A. No Clouds at This Shower

"Happy the bride the sun shines on," is a simple remark for wedding guests, as inevitable as the ring, or the cake. But most brides would protest if it was not at least one "show" and that a shower bouquet, "the gift of the women." Through all the varying fashions in flowers the "show" bouquet has held firm to its popularity, and is now again presented as a round, rather flat, cluster of valley lilies and maiden-hair ferns, wrapped in lace and dripping silver ribbons and lily-sprays.

War Cuts All Frills

WHETHER she be the new, romantic war-bride, or the common bride, the maiden who mates with her Prince Charming or Captain Courageous in the rose month, is passionately interested in clothes.

And the dress of the normal woman's life time, the costume of her girlhood dreams, and her middle-aged memories, the frock which is the alpha and omega of her clothes career, is now, and always, her wedding gown.

In this war year there is, of course, a patriotic sense of the need of economy even in a wedding gown. Many brides of army and navy men content themselves with a well tailored suit and a smart hat for the simple ceremony, either at church or at home.

But the tradition of white satin for brides is too old and too dear to be discarded, it seems, and although the gowns themselves economize in the rich laces, embroideries, and pearl trimmings of more prosperous years, white satin is still the favorite.

Satin Are Chosen

The choice of gowns this year is divided among several types. Swiss satin is perhaps the most popular, as it has a soft finish, a very high lustre, and the substantial qualities of the once inevitable duchess satin, but without its stiff intricacy for draping. Swiss satin has enough body to "stand alone" and yet sufficient softness to fall in the graceful folds and drapery demanded by the season's mode.

Chamois satin, with a softly pebbled surface, is also a favorite and the Satin Francaise, made in France, and admirable in its softness and sheen, is one frequently chosen for the woman of discerning taste.

For afternoon weddings crepe meteor is a wise choice, its somewhat dull surface being better suited to the day time functions than the more formal and elaborate satin.

Wise Little War Bride

The wise little war-bride with an eye to the future of the wedding costume, often selects a very fine, heavy quality of white crepe de chine, practical in texture and wearing quality, yet delicate and fine in effect. These simple gowns are made in strictly tailored lines which will lend themselves later to semi-formal afternoon and evening wear. Such gowns are worn under a veil and seldom reserved for the wedding ceremony only.

Other brides of quiet taste and modest purse select wedding gowns of fine white cotton net, woven on the silk net machines, and of exquisite fineness. Worn over a foundation of white china silk they make lovely frocks
